THE NEW ARCTIC EXPEDITION.

Captain Hall Nearly Ready to Sail-De-scription of His Vessel-The Crew-Joe and Hannah-Food-Plan of the Voyage.

From the Washington Patriot.

The Polaris, formerly the Periwinkle, is a vessel belonging to the Government, but rebuilt and fitted for this expedition in such a manner as almost to be a new and very superior craft. She is of about 400 tons measurement, considerably larger than the Advance, in which Dr. Kane undertook his famous voyage, and about the same size as the Germania, which left Bremen two years ago on an expedition to the Arctic Seas, She has been planked all over her sides with six inches of selid white oak timbers, and has throughout been nearly doubled in strength; her bows being almost a solid mass of timber, sheathed with iron, and terminating in a sharp iron prow with which to cut through the ice. Her engine, which was built some years ago at Messrs. Neafle & Levy's works, in Philadelphia, is exceedingly powerful and compact, taking up but comparatively little space, and being peculiarly adapted for hard and severe work, and the propeller is arranged in such a manner that it can be unshipped and lifted up on deck through a shaft or "propeller wheel" in the stern, which is a great advantage when the vessel is under sail or surrounded by floating ice that might easily damage the blades.

As to those who are going to be the principals in this adventurous and dangerous expedition, they are, all told, twenty-nine men. There is not a man among them whose qualities and character have not been well tested, from the captain down to the cook. The leader and commander-in-chief is, of course, Captain Hall; next in the command comes Captain S. O. Buddington, of New London, an old whalingmaster of thirty years' experience twenty-one of which were spent in the Dayla Strait and Baffin's Bay. He is an old and trusted friend of Captain Hall, who has implicit faith in his long experience and acknowledged ability. The second officer is Mr. H. C. Chester, also a whaling man of twelve years' experience among the ice; and the third officer is Mr. William Morton, who was Dr. Kane's trusted friend and companion, and is the only living mortal to whom it was ever permitted to look upon the open Polar Sea. He had the sad privilege to accompany Dr. Kane to Havana, and to bring his remains from there to Philadelphia for interment. Mr. Emil Schuman occupies the post of first engineer, and the scientific corps will consist of three gentlements of the gentlement of the post of the gentlement of the gent men, one of whom, Dr. Emil Bissells, of Heidelberg, Germany, will attend the expedition as a pregeon-naturalist. A student from the Obser-satory at Ann Arber, Mich., will probably be the stronomer; and an officer of the Signal Service Department will be aboard in the capacity of meteorologist. Besides these, there will be a placksmith, carpenter, steward, and fourteen sallors, besides the Esquimaux interpreter, Joe, and his wife, Hannah. This latter interesting ouple, with their little daughter, are genuine ecimens of the Esquimaux, but having been constant company with Captain Hall for eight ears past, they speak very good English, and have acquired civilized manners. Joe is a famous hunter and "sealer," and his little wife quite an accomplished woman in a "small" ray, with considerable talent for languages and music. Their little daughter, who will acompany them, is five years old.

Although Captain Hall expects to accomplish is purpose of penetrating into the great Polar asin, if such a one really exists, and visiting he North Pole, in less than three years, the elaris has been provisioned for four years, hich can be extended to six with a little econny and judicious distribution of rations. The at staple of provisions is the so-called "pemcan," which is composed of three parts of ected dried meat to one part of the best suct, xed with some other ingredients. The food both nourishing and wholesome, and, through absence of salt, there is no danger of scurvypestilence of Arctic travellers—to be feared om its use. It is packed in 45-pound tin cans, rmetically sealed, and of this there is no less an 10,000 pounds stowed away in the hold, the anufacture of which consumed and condensed 000 pounds of ordinary beet and 5000 pounds Besides this there is any quantity of led and dessicated vegetables, such as petaes, tomatoes, onions, etc., and a large stock flour, biscuits, sugar, coffee, tea, condensed lk, canned fruits, and all other necessaries or the protracted voyage. Captain Hall, hower, expects to be able to economize with the provisions to a very considerable extent substituting in their place the meat of the ndeer, musk-ox, walrus, and other game of regions that he is about to explore. Everyng has been done to make the quarters of h crew and officers as comfortable as the her limited space would permit; and the en-decks and cabins are perfect models of nliness. The state-rooms, for the officers scientists, are plain, but gotten up in good convenient style, and the cabin aft is a perdrawing-room in miniature.

AN INCIDENT OF THE SIEGE.

plosion of a Catrifige Manufactory in Paris—Fearful Loss of Life. Paris correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune, ing May 18th, says:—

frightful accident took place in Paris yes ay. The cartridge manufactory of l blew up, destroying in an instant, it is d more than 100 haman beings, and wounder a unknown number besides. I was on the alward yesterday afternoon about 6 o'clock, alward yesterday afternoon about 6 o'clock, et suddenly there was a slight explosion, ic caused all passers by to look about them, the sound was louder than the usual reports anon, to which we are all pretty well actoted by this time. ut immediately afterwards there came a meand much louder report, which made all widows rattle and all the people dash lly ito the middle of the street and stare lly bwards the Madeleine, as if they expected ad tat the explosion was on the boulevard. Lardly had the deafening sound rolled by bfore a huge grey volume of smoke to b seen in the direction of the Place de Concede. I jumped into a carriage and at to see what had really taken place, as ousan contradictory rumors were instantly "he Fort de Vanvres has been blown "No. It is a powder magazine at Passy."

No. It is a powder magazine at Passy.

No. It is was at the cartridge manufactory is Cham; de Mars. Wonderful to relate, iriver go excited, whipped his Rosinante a sharp tiot, and took me quickly to the e of the disaster. Just as my carriage ned the Port de l'Alma, three firemen rushed lically by, tragging a small hand fire-engine bout half-man power, to extinguish a fire which would have defied ten of the most powerful steam fire-engines in New York.

At the scene of the disaster a most appalling spectacle presented itself. Women and children rushed frantically hither and thither, not knowing what they did or whither they went, for some of them would have actually fdashed into the flaming ruins had they not been prevented by the firemen. One woman, mad with terror, flung herself from a third-story window, and was dashed to pieces on the pave-ment. The National Guards promptly formed a cordon across the Avenue Rapp, and declined to let any one go by, warning every one that there was imminent danger of a second and equally fermidable explosion. My safe-conduct secured me admittance. One could not walk many yards along the Avenue Rapp with-walk many yards along the Avenue Rapp without being in danger of stumbling over some blackened, shapeless corpse In the middle of the avenue lay the trunk of a woman whose arms, head, and limbs had been blown away.

It was difficult to recognize the charred mass of flesh and rags before us as having recently belonged to a living creature. A man's arm was to be seen on the top of a low house about 100 yards from the scene of the explosion. All this while the fire blazed fiercely, notwithstanding the courageous efforts of the firemen. Every ing the courageous efforts of the firemen. Every mement a fresh explosion was expected, as more powder was known to be stored in the neighborhood.

As if to add to the herror of the scene, the Versailles shells kept bursting in the Champ de Mars, in which many of the wounded were still lying. Above the roar of the flames would be heard the scream of the shells as they flew down from Montretout and Meudon. For a space of about a hundred yards square all the light wooden buildings had been levelled with the ground, and it was the debris that was burning, with many human beings buried in a fiery grave

ANOTHER CRAZY LOVER.

A Man Murders His Sweetheart and Commits Suicide. The Chicage Evening Post of Wednesday

At three o'clock yesterday afternoon a Bohe-mian named Martin Benada shot Catharine Vecklaw in the head, and then used the weapon with instantaneously fatal effect upon himself. Jealousy seems to have been the fiend which prompted this fearful slaughter. Martin and Catharine were engaged to be married. On Monday Catharine aunounced her desire to see the great peace procession, but Martin refused to accompany her. She resented this unkindness of her lover by saying that it made no difference whether he accompanied her; she could find another companion. She did find one, and in his company saw the procession as she desired.

Her conduct, notwithstanding that it was the natural result of his uncivil action in the matter, caused Benada pangs of jealousy, which finally led to the perpetration of the dual crime. The young man's first resolve was the better, though not the heat that might have been read to not the best that might have been made. He expressed to a friend a determination never to speak to the young woman again.

Both persons were employed in Thomas Hecch's tailor shop, No. 403 West Sixteenth street, and they met there sterday. In the afternoon Martin was absent from the shep. He went to a store on Blue Island avenue and purchased a revolver. In a short time he re-turned and resumed work. A few moments thereafter the report of a pistol was heard. Before the startled neighborhood knew whence it came, another report rang out. The jealous Bohemian had stepped over to where Catharine was working, and, in their native language, bidding her farewell, pointed the revolver at her head and fired. The ball penetrated the temple, over the eye, and the girl fell to the floor. The maddened murderer then placed the muz-zle of the revolver inside his own mouth and fired. The ball passed out at the back of the head, and the self-murderer fell dead.

Both parties were quite young. Martin was about 20 years of age, Catharine a year older. They had resided here some years, and knew each other in the old country.

The young woman remained in an insensible condition until 11 o'clock this morning, when

THE MANITOBA MUTINY.

A Pandemonium on Shipboard. The examination in the case of Thomas Walsh and other seamen of the British brig Manitoba, who are charged with piracy and mutiny, took place yesterday in New York

Captain Alfred R. Durkeen was the first witness. He was examined by ex-Judge Beebe, counsel for the British Consul. The captain deposed that some trouble broke out among his mean on the let of his men on the 1st of May, while the brig was en its way from Cardiff to this port; he went among the men, and found that they had refused to work; witness inquired the reason. when they said they would work if he gave them "watch and watch," a nautical term signifying that they required regular hours of duty; the captain then told them that they had mutinied, and that his only remedy was to put them in irons; went to the cabin and brought the men, "I shall put you in irons," one of the men, "I shall put you in irons," one of the men, Jeremiah Fitzpatrick, held out his arms, and said, "Here, put me in irons." The other men then rushed en witness, and witness dropped the irons and let go of Fitzpatrick and then put his hands in his nocket for his revolves. hen put his hands in his pocket for his revolver. in the hurry of the mement the revolver went off accidentally; the men then grappled with him, and he held his revolver above his head he fired a second shot and Thomas Shea caught him with one hand by the throat, and in the other a marlin-pin; witness fired at Shea, b the shot had no effect; previous to this Shes had already struck him two or three times; the men then wrenched the pistol from witness, and he seized a belaying-pin to defend himself; during the struggle witness received several severe wounds and bled profusely; the men were finally subdued, with the assistance of the mate and Cross-examined—The men did what they were told up to the 1st of May; had no particular fault to find with them up to that day; had no confidence in one of the men, Mr. Les er, who had shipped as mate; McKennan acted as mate: the men said they wanted to have an under-standing with him; after they beat him ho allowed them to virtually have their con way; told them afterwards that he forgave them; that was the only way to get them to resum a work.

The case was then adjourned.

A FORGED DECREE OF BIVORGE. Curious Revelations in the Bower Bigamy During the present trial at Washington of Congressman Christopher C. Boyen, charge of bigamy, the defense produced a decree purporting to show that Mr. Bower had been divorced from his first wife in this clay in 1865. and that Judge Barnard had signed the decree Upon subsequent investigation in the of the County Clerk, an entry of a decree was discovered divorcing C. C. I owen from his wife Frances C. Bowen, the names C. C. and Frances C. having been apprently written over other names new illegible. An examination of Judge Barnard's minutes showed that he had granted no such decree in that month. It is said that before County Clerk Loew came into office a divorce was granted to the husband in the case of ____ Bowen against ___ Bowen, tried before Judge Barnard in the Supreme Court, and that authenticated copies of this case having been obtained, the names of the persons concerned in it were changed to C. C. Bowen and Frances C. Bowen, and that these altered records were the records recently offered in evidence at Washington. Mr. Beamish, clerk of Judge Barnard's Court at Chambers, and several of Mr. Loew's clerks, have left Washington to expose the allegger traud .-

THE INDIANS.

Meeting at the Cooper Institute, New York-Speeches of "Little Raven" and "Buffalo Goad."

A very large meeting was held in New York, at the Coeper Institute, last night, Mr. Cooper presiding, at which the Indian delegation was Little Raven, chief of the Arapahoes, spoke through the interpreter as follows: -LITTLE RAVEN'S SPEECH.

I have come from a long distance to see my friends. Years ago, when I was at home, they told me I had a home here and father and mother. I have come now to find them. When at ther. I have come now to find them. When at home in my camp, a letter came from the Father at Washington, asking me to come and see him away in the States. I had been waiting for it for a long time, and when it came I did not hesitate a moment but came at once. I felt that the Father at Washington would right the wrongs of myself and my people. In this letter they told me I had many friends in this country who never saw the Indians, and who would be glad to see them. I talked with the chiefs of the other tribes, and we came here to see you to-night. Before leavwe came here to see you to-night. Before leaving I told my young people to remain with the agency till I came home, when I hoped to bring them good news. I told them I would be gone forty or fifty nights; they will expect me when that time is passed. They think I will look like a white man when I come back, because I have been to see the white man in the big house. I am glad to see so many of my friends here to-night-so many gentlemen, chiefs, and ladies. I think the Great Spirit has something to do with bringing you all here to-night. Long ago the Arapahoes had a fine country of their own. The white man came to see them, and the Indians gave him buffale meat and a horse to ride on, and told him the country was big chough for the white man and the Arapahoes too. After a while the white men found gold in our country. They took the gold and pushed the Indian from his home. I thought Washing-ton would make it all right. I am an old man now. I have been waiting many years for Washington to give us our rights. The Government sent agents and soldiers out there to us and both have driven us from our lands. We do not want to fight. The white man has taken away everything. I want to tell you of this because I believe if you know it you will correct the ceil. I think the Great Spirit is looking at all that is said here, and for that reason I am alking truth. I want my people to live like white people and have the same chance. I hope the Great Spirit will put a goed heart into the white people that they may give us our rights. When I saw the old man who invited us to come here to night my man who invited us to come here to-night, my heart opened to him. I have thanked the Great Spirit many times that I have been permitted to be here. I want to tell you all that is in my heart, and if I do not it will be because I forget it, and not because I hide it. We want to travel in the same road as the white man. We want to travel in the same road as the white man. We want to have his rifle, his powder, and his ball to hunt with. My people are waiting on the hills to greet me when I return, and I want to give them a good report.

Buffalo Goad, of the Wachitas, was next introduced and spoke as follows:

troduced and spoke as follows:-SPEECH OF BUFFALO GOAD. I am glad to meet my friends here to-night, and I want to have a good strong talk with you. I think there must be a great many big chiefs here to-night by the looks of this audience. I have heard that there are a great many white people in the East who know nothing of the wrongs which have been done to our people, to-night to tell a little of them. I will tell you a straight stery and he hes. We want houses built for our people to live in, and school-houses for our children, the same as white children have. I have heard that this house belongs to an old gentleman who loves everybody, and pities all poor people in the country. (Loud applause.) I think we should all be brothers. I want you to help all the Indians. Some are a little further along than we are, and we want to push ahead and get as far as they are. The white people have done a good deal of wrong to our people, and we want to have it stopped. If you are going to do anything for us, we want you to do it quick. I saw the Commissioner of Indian Affairs in Washington, and he told me he knew all about it, and was going to fix it up; but I have heard that so long that believe it is a lie. But you look like good people, and I don't think you will fool us as he has been fooling us. The Commissioner told us he wanted we should come and see the white people; that they would do us at wrong; and we have had a very good tirae, and I think that time the Commissioner talked straight. Some white men come among the Indians, and seem to like to live there, just to we have come here; and I would like to stay acte, toe. Since I have been here I have met and I am very glad to meet them here, and to meet all the new friends that I have made ere; and no white man has said anything had to me since I have been here, and for that feel very good. I have often heard in my own ### help being there. That is all I have got to say to you to-night. I have tried to make a straight talk and to tell no lies, and I am much obliged to you for listening to me. GRANT AT LONG BRANCH.

An Affectionate Welcome from Collector Murphy and the Sand Flies-Forcing the some that we had a great many white friends in the East, and since I have been looking over this audience I think it is true. I want you to step the white men from killing the Indians after this. The Indian loves to live as well as I one Branch, June 1.—President Grant and ba ty made their entry here to-day. They are about the only sojourners, for the Branch looks bleak and deserted. The President's party con-sisted of his wife and children and father-inlaw Dent, besides General Porter, wife, and son. The train, in which the President had a special car, arrived at 4.45 P. M. direct from Philadelphia, Collector Murphy, accom-panied by his wife, was the only friend present o greet his chief as he stepped upon the platform at the depot. The whole party, including Mr. and Mrs. Murphy, immediately took carriages and were driven to the Presidential cottage, which had been put in order by White House servants who arrived in advance. The President's baggage was transferred to the coach of the Pavilion Hotel, and was supervised by the hotel proprietor in person. The President has remained quiet since his arrival, as it would be misery to do anything else, considering the present state of affairs. Collector Murphy dined with him at about 6 o'clock, and returned to his own cottage a few doors below the President's house. President Grant has only six horses here as yet. These arrived in a special freight car to-day. He will probably not drive them for a day or two, as the track on Ocean avenue is heavy and rough. The President is in good health. The anticipated arrival of the Washington party has failed to bring any visitors to Long Branch. Only two hotels, both small ones, are as yet open. A large number of females were seen to arrive by the 6 o'clock train, but they were house-cleaners and came to scrub the Continental. That house and most of the others will not be formally opened before the 15th instant. However, a few more warm days may force on the season a little earlier. To-night the beach is cold and foggy; a fresh sea breeze is blowing in, and the passion is for anything else than bathing.—N. Y. World.

LEGAL INTELLIGENCE.

Criminal Cases.

Court of Quarter Sessions-Judge Finlatter.

John Male pleaded guilty to a charge of assault cango. He saw Cange driving a wagon in Green street, and jumping into the wagon put a living snake around his neck, and when such behavior was resisted he beat Congo brutally.

John Brown and Ellen Smith were tried upon the charge of picking pockets, but there being no evidence whatever against them they were acquitted.

William Duffie was put on trial charged with secreting his goodswith intent te defraud his creditors.

The case was a heavy and dry one, involving a complication of accounts. The defense was that he be-came involved in difficulties and obtained from all his creditors except the presecutor an agreement of compremise, by which he agreed to pay fifty cents on the dollar, and in order to fulfil his contract he tisposed of his property. On trial.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

EVENING TELEGRAPH OFFICE, Friday, June 2, 1871. There is no new feature in our local financial affairs to-day so far. The supply offering both on call and time is largely in excess of current wants, and rates are such as to stimulate the business demand if anything would. In call loans there was a lively inquiry, and the business in this class of transactions is large. Rates rule irregularly from 3@5 per cent. paper is offering, and when considered reliable is freely taken at 5@6 per cent. for long and short dates. Gold is more active, with considerable speculation for a further advance. The New York sales opened this morning at 119%, advanced to and relapsing, closed firm at 3.

Government bends are in close sympathy with gold, and prices show an advance of 16 on the Stocks were very active and higher. Sales of Pennsylvania 6s, 1st series, at 103%; 2d, do., at 106, and City 6s, new, at 99% for small lots. Reading Railroad was very active, with sales Reading Railroad was very active, with sales at 58½@59½, the latter b. o. Pennsylvania was in demand, and sold freely at 61½@63. Norristown brought 85; Lehigh Valley, 62½; Northern Central, 41½; Minehill, 54½; Catawissa, 22; and preferred do., 48.

Canal shares were quiet, with sales of Lehigh at 9812.

In the balance of the list we notice sales of Central National Bank at 130; Central Transportation at 50; St. Nicholas Coal at 3; and Chesnut and Walnut Streets Railroad at 51%.
